PREFATORY NOTE

This publication is a continuation of the "Statistical Tables relating to Banks in India" which was previously compiled by the Department of Commercial Intelligence and Statistics, India, and published by the Manager of Publications, Delhi. The Government of India have transferred the publication to the Reserve Bank with effect from its issue for the year 1939, as they considered that as the Central Banking authority in India, in close association with the more important banks in the country, it could more appropriately be entrusted with the duty of issuing it, especially as it has already in the course of its business to collect most of the statistics contained in the publication for its own use, so that a considerable amount of duplication of effort could be avoided. The present publication covers the two calendar years 1939 and 1940 and in future it is intended to issue it as soon after the close of each calendar year as possible.

2. With the object of making the publication more useful to banks and businessmen and others interested in banking in India a number of changes have been incorporated in the present issue. Special care, however, has been taken to see that statistical continuity is maintained as far as possible with the previous publications of the Director General of Commercial Intelligence and Statistics. The more important of these changes are as follows. In the first place, certain tables have been recast and expanded so as to give greater details of the position of the several classes of banks. Secondly, statistics regarding scheduled banks which are now occupying a more predominant position in Indian banking have been shown separately. Thirdly, statistics in respect of the smaller banks, i.e., banks with paid-up capital and reserves of less than Rs.1 lakh have also been collected for the first time in order to make the picture of Indian banking as complete as possible. Fourthly, statistics regarding Burma Banks which have not been included in the Tables since 1937 on account of the separation of Burma from India have now been included as the Reserve Bank is also the central bank for that country and the two banking systems are closely connected. Fifthly, Appendix I of the tables which gives names of banks located in various towns in India and Burma has been brought up-to-date (till 30th June 1941) in order to enhance its utility to banks and other institutions. Three further appendices have been also added, viz., Appendix III showing the names of members and sub-members of the various clearing houses, and Appendices IV and V giving respectively the names of non-scheduled banks approved for concession rates of remittances under the new scheme of remittances introduced by the Reserve Bank from the 1st October 1940 with the concurrence of the Central and the Provincial Governments and the rates charged thereunder. Maps showing the distribution of the offices of banks in India and also certain graphs have been added. Lastly, in addition to the usual explanatory notes on the various tables, a brief summary of the more important developments in the banking world during 1939 and 1940 has been given. An account of the monetary position in India will be found in the Bank's reports on Currency and Finance for 1939-40 and 1940-41.

3. Banking Developments: Inclusion of Banks in the Second Schedule.—The more important events in the banking world that took place during the years 1939 and 1940 may now be summarised briefly. Of these, mention may be made, first, of the far-reaching decision of the Government of India to change the procedure for the inclusion of banks in the second schedule under section 42(6) of the Reserve Bank of India Act. This section provides that "the Central Government shall, by notification in the Gazette of India, direct the inclusion in the Second Schedule, of any bank not already so included which carries on the business of banking in British India and which—

- (a) has a paid-up capital and reserves of an aggregate value of not less than five lakhs of rupees, and

- (b) is a company as defined in clause (2) of section 2 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913, or a corporation or a company incorporated by or under any law in force in any place outside British India, and shall by a like notification direct the exclusion from that schedule of any scheduled bank the aggregate value of whose paid-up capital and reserves becomes at any time less than five lakhs of rupees, or which goes into liquidation or otherwise ceases to carry on banking business." Prior to May 1940, banks were included in the second schedule mainly on the strength of their audited balance sheet or statement of auditors showing their paid-up capital and reserves at Rs. 5 lakhs or over. In view of certain difficulties experienced by Government in including banks in the Schedule, they ruled that the words "aggregate value of paid-up capital and reserves" occurring in the above section of the Act should be interpreted to mean the real or the exchangeable value of the paid-up capital and reserves and not the book value as shown in the balance sheet. In pursuance of this decision a new procedure for inclusion of banks was drawn up under which the Reserve Bank agreed to co-operate with Government in evaluating the paid-up capital and reserves and also in inspecting the books of the applicant bank if deemed desirable. Under this procedure out of a total of 6 banks applying for inclusion, 3 banks, namely, the Dinajpore Bank, the United Industrial Bank and the Bank of Communications, were included in the Second Schedule during the year 1940.

4. Proposals for an Indian Bank Act.—The Reserve Bank of India submitted certain proposals for an Indian Bank Act in 1939 in the form of a draft bank bill, which were circulated by the Government of India for eliciting public opinion in January 1940. The main provisions of the Draft Bill are as follows. In the first place they try to achieve a simpler and more restricted definition of banking and banking companies than the one given in section 277F of the Indian Companies Act and to remedy the existing anomaly under section 277G(1) of that Act under which institutions incorporated prior to the 15th January 1937 may continue to call themselves banks and yet refuse to comply with the statutory provisions relating to banking companies. Secondly, they seek to ensure that an institution calling itself a bank has sufficient capital to enable it to operate on a scale large enough to make it possible for it to earn a reasonable working profit, even if it confines itself to proper banking business, and that banks with inadequate resources will not open branches in the larger towns where the needs of the public are already being reasonably well catered for. Thirdly, an attempt has been made to provide for expediting and simplifying liquidation proceedings so that in the event of a bank failing the depositors may be paid off with the minimum delay and litigation expense.

5. Remittance Facilities.—With the approval of the Central and the Provincial Governments, the Reserve Bank of India introduced a new scheme of Remittance Facilities from the 1st October 1940. Under this scheme, the general rates for internal remittances have been considerably reduced and extended facilities have also been provided. A special feature of the scheme is the grant of concession rates to approved non-scheduled banks and indigenous bankers (vide Appendix No. V).

6. Explanatory Note on the Tables.—The tables have been divided into two parts. Part I contains summary tables in respect of the more important items of liabilities and assets of the several classes of banks while Part II gives details of the liabilities and assets of each individual bank. For the purpose of these tables, the banks have been classified into (1) the Reserve Bank of India, which is the Central Bank of the country, (2) the Scheduled Banks and the Burma Scheduled Banks comprising (a) the Imperial Bank of India which is the largest joint stock bank in India, (b) the Exchange Banks whose head offices are located outside India or Burma, and (c) other Scheduled and Burma Scheduled Banks or Joint Stock Banks registered under the Indian Companies Act in British India and under similar laws relating to registration of companies in certain Indian States and Burma and included in the Second Schedule to the Reserve Bank

Act or the Second Schedule to the India and Burma (Burma Monetary Arrangements) Order, (3) Non-Scheduled banks or India and Burma joint stock banks other than those included in the second schedule to the Act and the Order, and (4) the Co-operative Banks, in British India, Burma and in certain Indian States registered under the respective laws relating to co-operative societies in force in them.

7. Reserve Bank of India (table 1).—Table No. 1 shows liabilities and assets of the Reserve Bank of India at the end of each year. The statements are divided into two parts, A and B. (A) relates to the affairs of the Bank's Issue Department, while (B) relates to those of its Banking Department.

8. Scheduled Banks (tables 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 9 & 10).—Banks which carry on the business of banking in British India and which (a) have paid up capital and reserves of an aggregate value of not less than five lakhs of rupees, and (b) are companies as defined in clause (2) of Section 2 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913, or corporations or companies incorporated by or under any law in force in any place outside British India are included in the second schedule to the Reserve Bank Act and are known thereafter as scheduled banks. Banks fulfilling similar conditions in Burma are included in the second schedule to the India and Burma (Burma Monetary Arrangements) Order and are known thereafter as Burma Scheduled Banks. At the end of the year 1940 there were 62 scheduled and Burma scheduled banks including 20 Exchange Banks.

(a) Imperial Bank of India (tables 2 and 10).—Table No. 2 shows the more important items of the liabilities and assets of the Imperial Bank of India since its inception in 1922 (by the amalgamation of the Presidency Banks, viz., the Bank of Bombay, the Bank of Bengal and the Bank of Madras) while further details of its liabilities and assets are given in table No. 10 along with those of other scheduled banks.

(b) Exchange Banks (tables 3 & 9).—Summary table No. 3 shows in a consolidated form the capital, deposits and cash of the exchange banks working in India and Burma. Their total deposits in India and Burma increased from Rs.67.20 lakhs at the end of 1938 to Rs.74.08 lakhs at the end of 1939 and Rs.85.57 lakhs at the end of 1940. The total number of offices of the exchange banks in India and Burma at the close of 1940 stood at 101 as against 99 at the end of 1939 and 93 at the end of 1938.

(c) Other Scheduled and Burma Scheduled Banks (tables 4 and 10).—Table No. 4 (Class A1) shows in a consolidated form the more important items of liabilities and assets of the scheduled and Burma scheduled banks other than the Imperial Bank and Exchange Banks, while details of each bank are shown in table No. 10. Their total paid-up capital and reserves amounted to Rs.12.67 crores at the end of 1940 as compared with Rs.11.94 crores at the end of 1939. The deposits of the banks also increased considerably during the period, the total rising from Rs.94 crores at the end of 1939 to Rs.106 crores at the end of 1940. The ratio of cash to deposits of these banks rose from 17.2 in 1939 to 23.6 in 1940. The ratio of investments to deposits declined to 38.9 in 1939 but slightly rose to 40.0 in 1940. Loans and advances on the other hand declined in 1940 after a substantial increase in 1939 in the first upswing in economic conditions following the outbreak of the war.

9. Non-Scheduled Banks (tables 4 and 10).—These banks have been divided into four classes, (a) banks which have paid-up capital and reserves of Rs.5 lakhs or over but which have not so far been included in the second schedule under Section 42 (6) of the Reserve Bank Act, including a number of banks registered and working in Indian States and having no branches in British India and which are therefore ineligible for inclusion in the second schedule, (b) banks having paid-up capital and reserves between Rs.1 lakh and Rs.5 lakhs, (c) banks having paid-up capital and reserves between Rs.50,000 and Rs.1 lakh, and (d) banks having paid-up capital and reserves of less than Rs.50,000. Table No. 4 shows the consolidated position of the various classes of these banks while table No. 10 shows details of their liabilities and assets. Details as regards banks having paid-up capital and reserves below Rs.50,000 have, however, been omitted from table No. 10. At the end of 1940, there were 17 banks having paid-up capital and reserves of Rs.5 lakhs or above, 122 banks with capital and reserves between Rs.1 lakh and Rs.5 lakhs, 121 banks with capital and reserves between Rs.50,000 and Rs.1 lakh and about 680 banks with paid-up capital and reserves below Rs.50,000. For the purpose of these tables, only those companies working in British India which submit returns under Section 277L of the Indian Companies Act, and those registered and working in Indian States and Burma have been taken into account. The total deposits of the non-scheduled banks having capital and reserves of Rs.50,000 or over amounted to Rs.21.78 lakhs at the end of 1940 as compared with Rs.19.24 lakhs at the end of 1939. The total number of their offices numbered 718 at the end of 1940 as compared with 673 at the end of 1939. As regards banks having paid-up capital and reserves below Rs.50,000, their balance sheets for the year 1940 are not yet available in several cases and therefore their balance sheets as of 1939 have been consolidated. The capital and reserves of the 400 banks whose balance sheets have been consolidated amounted at the end of 1939 to Rs.76 lakhs and deposits to Rs.263 lakhs.

10. Proportion of Cash and Advances to Deposits [tables 6(I) and (II)].—Table No. 6(I) shows demand and time liabilities, cash balances and advances of all scheduled banks including the Imperial Bank and the Exchange Banks at the end of each year. It will be observed that the total amount of demand and time liabilities has shown a steady rise during the last 6 years, which has been particularly rapid after the outbreak of the war. The ratio of cash to demand and time liabilities which stood at 8.05 at the end of 1938 rose to 10.19 in 1939 and to 20.70 at the end of 1940. The increase in cash ratio at the end of 1940 is to be attributed partly to the desire of bankers to keep their position liquid in view of war conditions and partly to the slackness of demand for trade finance during the latter half of 1940 as a result of war developments. The ratio of loans and advances to demand and time liabilities showed a decline from 58.8 per cent at the end of 1939 to 37.7 per cent at the end of 1940.

Table No. 6(II) shows demand and time liabilities of non-scheduled banks working in British India only and submitting returns under Section 277L of the Indian Companies Act. Their total demand and time liabilities also rose during 1940 from 15.96 crores to 16.74 crores though the actual number of banks declined from 669 to 604. The ratio of cash to demand and time liabilities also rose from 6.9 to 7.8 during 1940.

11. Co-operative Banks (tables No. 7 and 11).—Table No. 7 shows in a consolidated form the more important items of liabilities and assets of the co-operative Banks working in India and Burma while table No. 11 shows details regarding each bank. These statistics relate to all Provincial and Central Co-operative Banks and registered non-agricultural (urban) co-operative credit societies with limited liability and having a capital and reserve of at least one lakh of rupees. These banks are sub-divided into two classes, namely (A), those with a paid-up capital and reserves of Rs.5 lakhs and over, and (B) those between Rupees one lakh and Rs. 5 lakhs. Statistics in respect of Burma banks have been included for the years 1938-39 and 1939-40. At the end of the co-operative year 1940, there were 41 banks in class 'A,' and 277 in class 'B'. It will be observed that their capital and reserves and deposits show continuous rise.

12. Bank Rates (table No. 8).—Table No. 8 shows the Reserve Bank of India rate, Bank of England rate and the Federal Reserve Bank of New York rate.

The rate of the Imperial Bank prior to the establishment of the Reserve Bank was considered to be the Bank Rate and has therefore been given from 1922 to 1934. During 1939 and 1940 the Reserve Bank of India Rate remained at 3 per cent. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York rate remained at 1 per cent while the Bank of England rate averaged 2.27 per cent in 1939 and 2 per cent in 1940.

13. Bank Failures (table No. 12).—A list of joint stock banks that went into liquidation or were wound up or otherwise ceased to work during 1939 and 1940 is given in table No. 12. The total number of banks which failed amounted to 86 during 1939, and 60 during 1940 with a total paid-up capital of Rs.1,81 lakhs and Rs.5,91 lakhs respectively.

14. Clearing House Returns (tables 13 and 13a).—The amount of cheques cleared through the various clearing houses in India is shown in table No. 13 while table No. 13(a) shows the number of cheques cleared during the last 2 years. The total amount of cheques cleared through all the clearing houses during 1940 amounted to Rs.22,52 crores as compared with Rs.22,15 crores in 1939, while the total number of cheques cleared amounted to 1,69 lakhs in 1940 as compared with 1,57 lakhs in 1939. The names of members and sub-members of the various clearing houses are shown in Appendix III.

15. Branches of Banks.—Appendix I shows the names of banks operating in the principal towns of India and Burma, while statistics in respect of the number of offices of each bank are given under the appropriate column against each bank in tables Nos. 9 and 10. The names of smaller banks, i.e., with paid-up capital and reserves below Rs.50,000 have also been added in the appendix in order to make the information complete. At the end of 1940 the number of offices and branches of banks in India and Burma was as follows :—

Imperial Bank of India	390
